Goal of the game

Be the fastest officer and arrest as many gang members as possible.

Setup

- Place the 5 Leader cards in star, in the center of the table.
- Scatter all the Gang cards face down around the Leader cards.

How to play

- Patrol. Everybody play at the same time. Everyone simultaneously flips one of the Gang cards present on the table.

- Slap! Once all the players have flipped over a card, slap with your hand the Leader whose gang is causing the most trouble (whose faces appear most on the visible cards) or the next one if you slapped too late!

3. Make arrests.

Collect all the Gang cards of the color of the leader you slapped. Place the collected cards face down in a pile in front of you, away from the playing surface.

WARNING!

The Prefect's Son hangs out with the gangs. And if you arrest him, you're going to have big problems!

.If you slap a Leader and the Prefect's Son is on one of the cards of his color, then you do not score any points this turn. Place the card with the Prefect's Son in front of you and return the other cards of that color that were revealed (if any) face down, in play.

4. Check.

- .If there are less than 6 Gang cards left in the center of the table, the game ends.
- .If there are at least 6 Gang cards left in the center of the table, a new round begins.

End of game / Scoring

.Officers earn as many points as there are gang members on the cards in their pile.

.Each card with the Prefect's Son in your possession causes you to lose 5 Points. You don't count other gang members present on this card.

.In case of a tie, the officer who never stopped the Prefect's Son wins.

.In case of a new tie, victory is shared.

SLAP Rules

- .The first player to slap a Leader card wins all cards turned face up on that turn from that color.
- .You can only win one color per round.
- .It is forbidden to slap two Gang Leaders at the same time for the same person (plus it hurts the wrist).
- .If your hand overlaps two cards, you either have big hands or you are a big cheater. Either way, it's the card your fingertips are on that counts as a slapped card.
- .If no one slaps a Gang Leader while the Prefect's Son was present on one of his cards, remove the Prefect's Son card from the game.
